

The Evening Bulletin,

DANIEL LOGAN, Editor.

FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1896.

Among the new licenses with fees attached, proposed in the Legislature, is one for lawyers, at $50 for practice in the higher, and $25 in the lower courts. To a lay mind this would seem to be unconstitutional, being an interference of the Legislative and Executive with the Judicial branch of the Government. Lawyers require a license to practice from the Supreme Court, whose Justices examine the applicants first as to their capacity. Why should they have to be licensed by two departments of the Government? Supposing a lawyer is prosecuted for practicing without a license from the Executive, will the Supreme Court enforce the penalty when the defendant claps in its face its own license to practice? The impost is objectionable in that it will be a heavy burden on many worthy practitioners who take into court the causes of poor clients. It will press especially hard upon the native members of the bar. Lawyers have to pay high for their education, and one who is not a born genius often has a hard struggle to gain a foothold in the profession, not to mention the great expense of getting together a respectable library. It is also proposed to place a license tax on the medical profession, which involves another conflict of authority. The doctors have to be licensed by the Board of Health, and it is absurd to require them to be licensed by any other subdivision of the Government.

A citizen only this morning asked the BULLETIN why it did not advocate the widening of Punchbowl street. He must have read yesterday's issue with one eye shut, for there, in an editorial resume of proposed street improvements, Punchbowl is mentioned as one of the streets that the Government intends to widen. It ought to be one of the soonest widened, as on the north side there is a wide territory without a main cross street like it. Its widening from Beretania street to the junction of Miller street should at least be expedited, as that would take it past the Queen's Hospital, one of the principal objects of interest in Honolulu. At the corner of Beretania street there is a big wooden house standing out close to the carriage way, and there have been many narrow escapes from serious accidents at that spot on account of the narrowness of the thoroughfare.

Notes of Both Houses.

It is said Senator McCandless has a little joker up his sleeve, in the shape of a petition with over 2000 names in favor of the opium license bill, which he will play at the right time.

Senator Waterhouse gave notice of a special meeting of the Committee of five on the Loan Acts on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Senate chamber, to which merchants, bankers, bondholders and the general public are invited.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Health will take place this afternoon.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION.

ness from Mr. Bishop, we felt that a large amount of money would be required in the coming fall for the plantations and in general business. A large amount of coin being required here in the fall between the crops. And also to provide for what is always sure to happen, the unexpected, for you never know what is going to happen in money matters, and the same rule applies to the Treasury. That is one of my strongest reasons for working for a reserve. Bishop & Co. disposed of its Government bonds and securities that it held in Honolulu in the amount of $170,000. So that at the present time Bishop & Co. holds here in Government securities $15,000, in the shape of a promissory note of the Post-Master General and $4500 in bonds. Under these circumstances I cannot think the Minister of Finance will be accused of using his position as banker to work for his own advantage. If Bishop & Co. had not taken that position last year, we could not have drawn upon our credit in San Francisco to supply the coin for the cholera expenses.

When the subject of the Loan Bills comes up I would like to meet the Committee and also would like to meet any others who are interested in the matter of finance; and will hold myself in readiness, so far as I am able, to answer any questions that may be put to me. We must remember, and the Executive remembers, that in our present position the people have a good deal to say about the management of finances. The questions of what style of loan bill should be put upon the market, how much of the loan bill should be put upon the market and everything that is done should have the most careful consideration and the freest kind of criticism. I do not think there is an office in this Government that should have more criticism than the Treasury. It is the people's money that is spent and it is the people who are being taxed, and the Executive is agreeable to have everything connected with the Treasury criticised. We do not know what effect these Loan Bills will have. The fact of putting upon the market a loan for public works may have a far reaching effect not only on our own industries but it may affect our connection with the United States.

Having made this statement I will leave it to you to decide for the future. I shall make no other statement in regard to my personal connection with the Treasury; but I will give you the freest hand to examine and criticize and bring forward suggestions with reference to the conduct of the Treasury Department, for it is the life of the Nation.

The report of the Miscellaneous Committee on the Great Seal, printed in full in yesterday's BULLETIN, was taken up and finally adopted. This action takes the whole matter back to the Joint Committee on both Houses on the Great Seal.

Minister Cooper called the attention of the Senate to the fact that the term of office of the present Council of State ends by law at the expiration of the present session, and that it will be necessary for both Houses to elect five members each of the new Council.

Senate Bill 6, to widen the streets of Hilo, with the amendments proposed by the House was taken up. The amendments were concurred in without opposition.

On motion of Senator McCandless the second reading of the License Act was made the special order for Monday.

Senator Brown from the Committee on Passed Bills reported

Timely Topics

March 14, 1896.

A church congregation down in Sanders, Ky., was dismissed most summarily under unpleasant circumstances two Sundays since. Right in the middle of the preacher's discourse there bolted into the church through the half-open door what appeared to be a black and white cat, closely followed by a yellow dog. Cat and dog ran swiftly down the middle aisle to the platform. The preacher taken unawares, did the natural thing, kicked at the cat, hit it, and landed it squarely in the middle of the congregation. Then it turned out that the cat was a skunk. The rest of the story is left to the imagination of the reader.

This week we want to call your attention especially to the ALASKA REFRIGERATOR and give you a few items concerning its construction.

To give strength and durability, an inside body, or frame is made of well dried, matched wood, to which hardwood cleats are solidly nailed. Upon these cleats the outer body, or frame, is built.

The inner frame is made from perfectly odorless wood, and is lined with zinc. Polished as bright as a mirror, presenting a very clean and attractive appearance.

All exposed wood, as under the lids and about the doors, is odorless tulip poplar, thoroughly shellaced. This makes the Refrigerator clean and sweet.

Between the outer and inner walls there is an inch and a half space filled with PURE CHARCOAL. There is nothing so good in every way for filling the space between the two walls of a Refrigerator as Pure Charcoal.

The locks are entirely new in principle, and are, without exception, the best ever used on a Refrigerator. They will keep the door closed perfectly tight, even if they were left one-eighth inch loose.

The hinges are very strong, beautiful in design, and made expressly for THE ALASKA REFRIGERATOR.

All the trimmings are solid brass, dipped finish, this being the latest style in fine brass goods.

From the results of tests made during the past three years, we are convinced that the ALASKA is the best Refrigerator in the market, in construction, in power to preserve perishables, in economy of ice, and, in fact, in all the points necessary to make them first-class in every respect.

Results of Honesty.

"My watch is giving me the utmost satisfaction; I actually believe it does not vary a second during the week."

Pleasant remarks these. Just the kind of balm a watchmaker needs occasionally to keep up his spirits. For you know working all day on a high stool, a glass firmly screwed into one eye, looking at objects so minute it takes a microscope to distinguish them, is not the pleasantest occupation which could fall to the lot of man.

So it's no wonder a fellow gets all out of sorts occasionally, and then it's the time a few remarks like the above does what all the patent medicine in the world could not accomplish, cheers up, makes things look brighter, the next job goes all the smoother.

Speaking of the above watch: It was an old one. The wearer had used it steadily for forty years. It had run enough; had revolved its wheels so long and steadily, that at last it was tired out. The pivots were so worn, the wheels just wobbled and wobbled, then stopped altogether. What was to be done? Throw it away? Get a new one. Yes, but the wearer valued it for its associations, it was as dear to him as his best friend; so nothing would do but build it all over as it were, renew the parts, put some go into it. That we accomplished it to the entire satisfaction of the owner, his remarks above would surely leave no room for doubt. And we can do the same with yours, sometimes they go a little too far, and the cost for reconstruction is too much, but generally no work is too intricate for us. It is that which we brag about, complicated work is our stronghold. Isn't it reasonable now to suppose that we are better able to do your less intricate work? Wouldn't it be safer to give us the custody of your watch altogether, no matter what the trouble, and have a feeling of certainty as to its treatment?

COFFEE ESTATE AND LANDS For Sale.

I am directed to sell at Public Auction on Wednesday, May 27, '96, at 12 o'clock noon of said day at my salesroom on Queen street, in Honolulu (unless sooner disposed of at private sale) the following described property, namely:

A tract of land of about 2,500 acres in fee simple situated in Kolo and Oloheoona 1 in South Kona, Island of Hawaii, about eight miles by a good road from Hilo, one of the largest villages in Kona. There is an excellent landing on the land itself from where the coffee and other produce could be shipped and a good site for a mill near the landing.

Fifty acres of land are in coffee. Roughly estimated there is about seven hundred acres of splendid coffee land lying all on one block on both sides of the Government Road. Eight hundred acres lying above and to the East of the seven hundred acres above mentioned is also excellent land and although at a higher altitude is no doubt also well adapted for coffee culture. The lower land below the coffee belt is suitable for pineapples and such.

There is a drying house, store and work-rooms, a Gordon's Pulper, laborers' quarters and water tanks at the plantation, and the land is partly walled. There has never been any light on this land, although coffee was planted a great many years ago. Old residents of Kona like the late Dr. H. A. Nau, J. W. Kuamoku and others have testified to this fact. There is a saw factory appurtenant to Oloheoona 1.

Terms cash or part of the purchase price can remain on mortgage at eight per cent per annum. Deeds and stamps at the expense of purchaser.

A map of the property can be seen and further particulars obtained at my sales rooms.
